Forget wooden or brick walls, concrete walls are the answer to today's energy-conserving requirements. This application is capable of creating concrete wall designs that comply with the current building codes and that provide an excellent thermal performance that results in a high R-value. The application supports all types of wall systems including structural insulated panels (SIPs), precast wall systems, and exterior and interior brick walls. Quality time estimates are not included, so be sure to double check your time. If you need a time estimate, contact your Tekla sales representative.
